

Concord Parks & Recreation Environmental Education with Madeline Champlin

Madeline Champlin is a Concord, NH, native. She fondly remembers growing up exploring her childhood backyard for nature's creatures and climbing nearly every tree in sight. Madeline received her B.S. in Natural Science from Lyndon State College. For the past ten years Madeline has been working in environmental education. Madeline has always loved the outdoors. Now, her passion is teaching and sharing that love of nature, the environment, and the outdoors with others. We hope you will join Madeline as she leads environmental education programs for kids, youth, and adults through Concord's Parks and Recreation Department.

Animal Tracking Program at White Park

You might be surprised to learn that many animals in NH stay active during these cold winter months. Snow creates a great canvas to start looking at and identifying animal tracks. Let's meet at White Park to learn about animal tracks and see which animals are out and about around the park. Be sure to dress warmly, and wear a mask. We will be outside for the entire program.
