

Concord, New Hampshire
August 10, 1965

In commemoration of the 200th Anniversary of the City of Concord, the New Hampshire Society Sons of the American Revolution, incorporated in 1880, one of fifty State Societies banded together in the National Society Sons of the American Revolution, whose roots go back to 1776, dedicated to the principles of freedom and constitutional government fought for and established by our Founding Fathers, does now in full confidence record this message: That the City of Concord, in common with the entire nation, will continue to enjoy anniversaries just so long as citizens continue to observe their privileges and responsibilities, value their rights, exercise vigilance against threats to sound practice in government, and in all necessary ways continue to foster the principles that have made our nation strong. It is our fervent hope that these foundations of strength will be preserved intact during the coming century, when a future generation will celebrate Concord's Tercentenary and remove this parchment from the earth.
